

Young Adult Social and Support Group

No matter what life throws at you, everything is made easier with support from others who can truly relate to what you're going through. That's why young adult cancer patients are finding a strong sense of belonging through Community Health Network's Young Adult Social and Support group (YASS). Whether virtually or in-person, the YASS group is there through the highs and lows, the good and the bad. Join members monthly and be surrounded by love, support, and friendship to help you along your journey.
